What is the ActEU Trans-National Youth Democracy Lab?

Europe's democracies are being tested. Trust is eroding. Facts are under fire. Institutions feel distant. And yet, young people across the continent still believe in building a better and more sustainable future.

The Trans-National Youth Democracy Lab, within the framework of the ActEU project, is a space for young people to come together and take these issues seriously. Not through lectures. Not through panels. But through small group conversations that aim to generate honest insights and practical, actionable recommendations.

Moderated by

Alexander Hoppe

Lecturer,
University of Duisburg-Essen

What will you do?

Meet other young people and learn about the challenges to today's democracies and how to resolve them

Generate honest insights and actionable recommendations to be shared with policy-makers

What are the topics?

Participants will have the opportunity to discuss and develop recommendations on one of these four topics:

- 1 Rebuilding trust in multi-level governance
 - 2 Polarisation and democratic resilience
 - 3 Deceitful information in the post-truth era
 - 4 Rethinking political representation

How to apply?

Fill in the Google Form and submit your application by Tuesday, 27 May

About ActEU

How can we conceptualise and empirically measure political trust and legitimacy beyond the usual survey question “How much trust do you have in the parliament?”? Does the multi-level nature of European representative democracies require an identical level of citizen support at the regional, national and EU levels? ActEU aims at finding answers to these questions and more. We develop context-sensitive solutions for all policy levels and types of polarising fields (migration, environment, gender).
