FAKE NEWS

Brussels manipulates national elections, reversing unwanted results. The EU pressured Romania to exclude pro-Russian presidential candidate Călin Georgescu, and chose Péter Magyar to replace Viktor Orbán to bring a more EU-friendly government to power in Hungary.

The EU institutions neither choose candidates
nor determine national election results.

EU measures promote transparency and protect against foreign interference.

Romania's election was annulled by its Constitutional Court, and Péter Magyar was elected by Hungarian voters in an election with record turnout.
